1. Editable name of the service

2. The most companies have fees based on sending country

Some such as PayPal have fees also based on receiving country. In case of paypal these fees are added on top of the sending fees.

(PayPal has fees based on receiving country as well as sending) - that's what the checkbox "Fees are add up" is for

???Some might not have it added up that's why this checkbox is needed????

3b. is needed to show which countries the services sends money to (even when no receiving fee is applied)

3. Countries send to/from to which fees below are applied. If the country is not selected in from or to, the service does not support transfer from / to this country.

4. From which amount the fee is applied (can be empty if no lower limit is set, if no empty value is used it means the transfer can be done only from specified amount eg. transfer cannot be done for less than 200 GBP (FairFX, MoneyCorp))

5. Amount to which the fee is applied (can be empty if no high limit is set, if no empty value is used it means the transfer can be done only to specified amount, see (Lebara - Europe E3000, India E5000))

6. Fixed fee applied to from/to range

7. Percentage fee applied to from/to range

8. Some services offer first free transfer until specific amount
